Report of Legal Aid Camp

Date: - 05-04-2024

Objective of Legal Aid Camp: Free legal aid refers to the offering of no-cost legal assistance in both civil and criminal cases to individuals who are economically disadvantaged and marginalized This service is provided to those who cannot afford the fees of a lawyer for representing them in court, tribunals or any legal proceedings.

Description: - Jagmohan College of Law organized a legal aid camp, underscoring its commitment to community engagement and advancing access to justice. The primary objectives were to offer free legal assistance to individuals facing financial constraints; raise awareness about legal rights, and empower the local community.

The event featured educational sessions, workshops, and information booths where attendees, including 50 students, deepened their understanding of legal rights and responsibilities. The camp, situated in the marginalized area of Sisana village, Baghpat district, provided free legal consultations on various disputes such as property, family matters, domestic violence, cybercrime, and child labor.

Moreover, the initiative aimed to educate residents about their entitlement to free legal aid in cases of legal disputes. Such endeavors exemplify Jagmohan College of Law's dedication to societal betterment and provide students with invaluable practical exposure.

Outcome of Legal Aid Camp:

- increased legal awareness
- Access to justice
- Developed problem solving skills
- Empowerment and self advocacy
- Community engagement
